Project Finance

project finance is essentially financing on the security of the project itself, with limited or no recourse against the sponsors of the project or other parties involved in the development and implementation of the project. Due to such characteristics of project finance, the loans sought by the borrowers are always approved by the lenders on the basis of strong in-house appraisal of the cost and viability of the ventures as well as the credit standing of project promoters.

An understanding of the possible money streams into a particular project and the possible expenditure streams out of the same is essential to structure the finance. Such understanding would be based on an analysis of the legal framework governing the project, all of the project's documentation including all government approvals with regard to the implementation and financing of the project and the finance documentations.

Our goal is to provide large financial institutions with much needed advice and services, while at the same time balancing interests of both parties. We strive to achieve this by providing a unique perspective on the needs of each client as well as taking care of all necessary tasks for future projects.
